

Welcome to the Michigan Speed Measurement Task Force Web Site
Michigan Speed Measurement Task Force
Revision April 9, 1998

This web site was constructed to serve the following purposes:

1. Members of the Michigan Speed Measurement Task Force (MSMTF) can use this site to access the latest revisions of all task-force documents.
2. Law-enforcement agencies can use this site to access information related to equipment standards, performance specifications and the latest version of the Michigan Qualified Product List for the Procurement of Speed Measurement Equipment. Agencies can also review the latest operator training standards.
3. The legal community can use this site to access information needed for the adjudication of cases involving speed-measurement equipment.
4. The general public can use this site to acquire a better understanding about the Michigan Speed Measurement Task Force; i.e., the organization itself, its operation and the scope of its recommendations.
5. Finally, this web site can be used to submit feedback to the task force. There exists a convenient electronic feedback form that can be used to submit suggestions or opinions. Law-enforcement agencies can use this same form to request replacement certificates for their speed-measurement equipment.

The buttons on the left side of the display screen can be used to access each of the documents posted at this web site. These documents may be read on line or downloaded to the user's computer or printer. A download button has been placed at the end of each of the on-line documents.
